

Graduate Employment Survey: Part-Time versus Full-Time Employment

The graduate employment survey provides critical insights into the comparison between part-time and full-time employment statuses among recent graduates. It helps identify trends in job market participation, allowing institutions and employers to assess workforce readiness and economic engagement. Understanding these patterns supports better career planning and educational program development.