

Expense Receipt Retention Period for Small Businesses

The expense receipt retention period for small businesses typically ranges from three to seven years, depending on local tax laws and audit requirements. Maintaining organized records helps ensure compliance and facilitates smooth tax filing processes. It is crucial for small businesses to securely store receipts and related documentation within this timeframe.