

Behavioral Questions in Job Application Questionnaire

Behavioral questions in a job application questionnaire are designed to assess a candidate's past experiences and how they handle various workplace situations. These questions help employers predict future behavior by evaluating problem-solving, teamwork, and communication skills. Using behavioral questions ensures a more accurate understanding of a candidate's suitability for the role.