

Difference between Delivery Receipt and Invoice

The delivery receipt serves as proof that goods have been received by the customer, confirming the delivery. An invoice, on the other hand, is a document requesting payment for goods or services provided. Both documents play distinct roles in the sales process, ensuring accurate tracking and billing.